Language Arts* Science *Social Studies

We spent the week learning about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. We started off with a picture biography of Dr. King's life and accomplishments. We then made a mural to represent Dr. King's dream of all people getting along peacefully and judging each other on the quality of their character, not their looks. We also learned a song about Dr. King. The "K" Kids couldn't believe some of the injustices that we discussed, such as 'white only' signs at parks and restaurants. Because this is such a sensitive topic, you may want to review some of these ideas at home.

Next Week* "100"

Mr. Kauk promised us a party if we worked hard for 100 days so we are planning a super fun day on Thursday for the 100th Day of School. Thanks for sending in our 100 objects for our collages.

Monday—No School
Tuesday—Art
Wednesday—PE/Music
Thursday—Library... 100 Day!
Friday—PE/Music

Math

We continued with our Measurement unit. We worked on measuring capacity and weight. You can log on and practice at home on the Pearson Math site (there's a link from our class website).

Web Update

Have you checked out the pictures on our website lately? Click on Photos on the blue bar and you can see things happening week by week. Great things are happening at school. The website is a glimpse into what's happening daily in our classroom. ...Enjoy!

You're Wonderful!

Thanks so much for all of the work that you're doing to help your child be successful in kindergarten. This class is so great about returning books and homework. It really helps, and I can tell the difference. Keep up the great work!

Sincerely
Mrs Brockhaus Mrs MoneyMaker
