We started off our study of oceans this week. We have learned ocean songs that teach us the names of the ocean and about the food chain in the ocean. Monday, we tasted ocean water...yuck! You can see our reactions on our web page. Mrs. Brockhaus has several different bottles of sand from a variety of beaches around the world. We can definitely see that not all beaches are the same! We are making our entire classroom into an ocean. We have waves on the ceiling and a huge ocean mural. Each day, we are focusing on a different ocean animal. We are learning facts about animals and then creating them to populate our ocean.

Check out our web page for interesting information about each of these ocean animals and be prepared to be tested on some fun ocean facts!

*Math***

Our math focus this week has been money. We are learning to identify each coin (penny, nickel, dime, and quarter) and the value of each. We are also learning to add up change up to 10¢. This is proving to be quite a challenge for the "K" Kids.

For homework, dump out those piggy banks and practice counting and adding up change!
